Material Changes

This Brochure has been prepared for information on Buckley Investment Group, LLC, (“Advisor”), a registered investment adviser.

This filing is further to our last brochure dated March 8, 2019 and removed updates to our ADV Part 2B for recent changes in our staffing.

In the future, this section will discuss specific material changes that are made to the Brochure and provide clients with a summary of such changes. Following the SEC and state rules, we will ensure that clients receive a summary of any material changes to this and subsequent Brochures within 120 days of the close of our fiscal year. The Advisor may further provide other ongoing disclosure information about material changes as necessary.

If clients or prospective clients want to learn additional information about Advisor or its representatives, please call (509) 522-1600, or visit the SEC’s website at www.adviserinfo.sec.gov.

Item 4 ▪ Advisory Business

Buckley Investment Group, LLC (“Advisor”) was formed in September 2003 to provide investment advisory services for individuals, trusts, entities, companies, corporations and foundations. Advisor is owned by John Buckley and Melissa Buckley. Through its Investment Advisor Representatives (“IARs”), the Advisor provides discretionary investment advisory services on a fee-only basis. Clients can engage the Advisor for Investment Management Services (“IMS”), Automated Portfolio Management, and/or Financial Planning.

Investment Management Services

The Advisor provides IMS specific to the needs of each client and will learn about each client’s investment objective (s) risk tolerance and time horizon through personal interviews or questionnaires. The Advisor will then invest the client assets according to their financial objectives using equities (stocks), debt (bonds) and fixed income securities, mutual funds and/or exchange traded funds (“ETFs”). The Advisor may also recommend private investments or limited partnerships. The Advisor’s annual investment advisory fee is based upon a percentage (%) of the market value of the assets managed by the Advisor and is outlined in the Advisory Agreement signed by the Client. It is important to know that investing in these types of investments involve significant risks, including principal loss and illiquidity. Additionally, the values of the private investments and/or limited partnerships used may be the initial purchase price of the investment or the amount reported by the issuer. These values will be included in the value used to determine the assets under management.

For some IMS Clients, the Advisor may recommend using separately managed accounts, which are managed on a discretionary basis by separate and unaffiliated registered investment advisors (“Independent Managers”). Once allocated, the Advisor provides ongoing monitoring and review of accounts and investments.

Overlay Managers

Another option offered by the Advisor is an Automated Portfolio Management (“APM”) program, which utilizes the Charles Schwab Institutional Intelligent Portfolios (“IIP”) or other institutional money management and trading platforms. These are automated investment rebalancing and investment programs that utilizes mutual funds, ETFs, stocks, or other institutional managers. These Overlay Managers may utilize a risk questionnaire completed by the client to select an investment portfolio that will be automatically updated based on parameters selected by the client and/or the Advisor. Alternatively, the Overlay Manager may rebalance investment portfolios based on the risk tolerance assessment of the Advisor. It is important to know that investing through APM may involve minimal interaction with the Advisor, so clients should contact Advisor for any questions or to report any changes in financial objectives. It is also important for clients to know that the APM option may not be appropriate or even offered by the Advisor to all clients/prospects. More information on IIP is at <https://institutionalintelligent.schwab.com> or additional information is available for other Overlay Managers upon request.

Financial Planning Services (“FPS”)

Under a Financial Planning Agreement, the Advisor may provide limited consultation services on investment and non-investment related matters including, but not limited to, estate planning, tax planning, insurance, savings rates, mortgages, retirement goals and personal financial cash flow projections. In some cases a written plan will be provided to Clients. It is important to know that clients are different so services provided under the Financial Planning Agreement are very customized and not delivered uniformly to all clients. In some cases, the Advisor may waive the fee for FPS. Client retains the absolute authority over any and all implementation decisions and is free to accept or reject any recommendation from the Advisor. It is also important to know that FPS may result in the Advisor recommending more investments incorporated into planning goals, which may result in higher fees collected by the Advisor. Neither the Advisor, nor any of its IARs serves as an attorney or licensed insurance agent and no portion of any fee paid to the Advisor should be construed as such. Unless directly engaged by client, Advisor will not offer any accounting services.

The Advisor may recommend the services of other professionals for certain non-investment implementation purposes (i.e. attorneys, accountants, insurance, etc.). The client is under no obligation to engage the services of any such recommended professionals and has authority over all any and all recommendations, advice or suggestions. If the client engages any such recommended professional, and a dispute arises thereafter relative to such engagement, the client agrees to seek recourse exclusively from and against the engaged professional.

It is important for clients to keep the Advisor apprised of any changes in their financial situation or investment goals and objectives. Failure to provide financial updates and life changes may adversely impact the investment plan that

Item 4 ▪ Advisory Business (con't)

In the event the Advisor is engaged to provide investment management services as part of an unaffiliated wrap-fee program, Advisor will be unable to negotiate commissions and/or transaction costs. Participation in a wrap program may cost the participant more or less than purchasing such services separately. In the event that Advisor is engaged to provide investment management services as part of an unaffiliated managed account program, Advisor will likewise be unable to negotiate commissions and/or transaction costs. If the program is offered on a non-wrap basis, the program sponsor will determine the broker-dealer through which transactions must be effected, and the amount of transaction fees and/or commissions to be charged to the participant investor accounts.

As of December 31, 2018, the Advisory had $116,265,433 in assets under management on a discretionary basis.

Item 5 ▪ Fees and Compensation

Clients can engage Advisor to provide discretionary investment advisory services on a negotiable fee-only basis. The Advisor's tiered annual investment advisory fee shall be based upon a percentage (%) of the market value of assets placed under the Advisor's management, generally between 0.35% and 1.15% as follows:

Market Value	Annual Fee %
The first $499,999	1.15%
The next $500,000	1.00%
The next $4,000,000	0.85%
The next $5,000,000	0.50%
All Assets over $10,000,000	0.35%

The fees charged are tiered, which means a standard client with $1,000,000 in assets under management will pay an annual fee of 1.15% on the first $499,999 and 1.00% on the next $500,000. The Advisor shall deduct fees and/or bill clients monthly in arrears, based upon the market value of the assets on the last business day of the previous month. The market value used in the calculation will include all positions in the account, cash, dividends, accrued income and interest payments unless specifically excluded in the Special Instructions section of the Advisory Agreement.

Clients investing in APM may pay more or less than Clients utilizing the standard investment management services, so it is important to know that a conflict of interest could arise if the Advisor would make more in fees through investment Management Services was selected or recommended over the APM. If APM is offered by the Advisor it is important for the Client or prospect to determine if it is appropriate for their investment needs and goals. Additionally, fees for the APM may be in addition to the Advisor's fee noted above and as noted in the advisory agreement between Advisor and Client.

Clients may elect to have the Advisor's advisory fees deducted from their custodial account. Both Advisor's Investment Advisory Agreement and the custodial/clearing agreement may authorize the custodian to debit the account for the amount of the Advisor's fee. In the limited event that the Advisor bills the client directly, payment is due upon receipt of the Advisor's invoice.

In most cases, the Advisor will recommend Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. ("Schwab") as the firm that hold client assets ("Custodian"). Client is responsible for the transaction charges, fees and other expenses charge by Custodian. All fees charged by Advisor for investment management services are separate and distinct from the fees and expenses charged by mutual funds and exchange traded funds ("ETFs"). In these cases, the fees and expenses are described in each fund's prospectus. These fees will generally include a management fee, other fund expenses, and a possible distribution fee. Accordingly, client should review the fees charged by the funds/ETFs, Custodian fees, fees charged by any Investment Manager (if any) and the fees charged by Advisor to fully understand the total amount of fees to be paid. Additionally, the investments selected for client are not exclusively available to Advisor, and could be obtained through other unaffiliated firms.

When beneficial to the client, individual fixed-income and/or equity transactions may be effected through broker-dealers with whom Advisor and/or the client have entered into arrangements for prime brokerage clearing services, including effecting certain client transactions through other SEC registered and FINRA member broker-dealers (in which event, the client generally will incur both the transaction fee charged by the executing broker-dealer and a "tradeaway" fee charged by the account Custodian).

Item 5 ▪ Fees and Compensation (con't)

The Advisor does not generally require a minimum asset level or advisory fee for investment advisory services. In addition, the Advisor, in its sole discretion, may reduce its investment advisory fee based upon certain criteria (i.e. anticipated future earning capacity, anticipated future additional assets, dollar amount of assets to be managed, related accounts, account composition, negotiations with client, etc.). The Investment Advisory Agreement between the Advisor and the client will continue in effect until terminated by either party by written notice in accordance with the terms of the Investment Advisory Agreement. Upon termination, the Advisor shall debit the account for the pro-rated portion of the unpaid advisory fee based upon the number of days that services were provided during the billing period. Neither the Advisor, nor its IARs accept compensation from the sale of securities or other investment products.

Item 6 ▪ Performance Based Fees

The Advisor does not offer or receive any performance based fees.

Item 7 ▪ Types of Clients

The Advisor's clients include individuals, high net worth individuals, corporations, trusts and charitable organizations. The Advisor does not generally require an annual minimum fee or asset level for investment advisory services.

Item 8 ▪ Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

The Advisor may utilize the following methods of security analysis:

- Charting - (analysis performed using patterns to identify current trends and trend reversals to forecast the direction of prices)
- Fundamental - (analysis performed on historical and present data, with the goal of making financial forecasts)
- Technical – (analysis performed on historical and present data, focusing on price and trade volume, to forecast the direction of prices)
- Cyclical – (analysis performed on historical relationships between price and market trends, to forecast the direction of prices)

The Advisor may utilize Long Term Purchases (securities held at least a year) and Short Term Purchases (securities sold within a year) when implementing investment advice given to clients.

Investing has various risks and all investments have the risk of losing value. Some investments have the risk of defaulting on interest or principal payments. Clients are also faced with the risk that inflation will outpace the returns of the investment, which lowers the purchasing power of that client. Rebalancing portfolios may cause taxable events, which could raise client taxes. Investing in options incurs the risk of the option expiring as well as going down in value. It is important that clients understand that there are numerous risks associated with investing. Clients are encouraged to contact Advisor for any questions on risk in the Accounts by calling (509) 522-1600.

The Advisor allocates client investments among broad asset classes and sub-asset classes that could include, but are not limited to the following:

- Domestic Large Cap, Mid Cap, and Small Cap Equities
- International Developed, and Emerging Markets
- Domestic Government, Municipal, and Corporate Fixed Income
- Real Estate Investment Trusts (REITS)
- Hedge funds
- Private equity
- Commodities

It is important to know that investing in securities involves risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear. Different types of investments involve varying degrees of risk, and it should not be assumed that future performance of any specific investment or investment strategy (including the investments and/or investment strategies recommended or undertaken by the Advisor) will be profitable or equal any specific performance level.

Item 8 ▪ Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss (con't)

The Advisor's methods of analysis and investment strategies do not present any significant or unusual risks. However, every method of analysis has its own inherent risks. To perform an accurate market analysis the Advisor must have access to current/new market information. The Advisor has no control over the dissemination rate of market information; therefore, unbeknownst to the Advisor, certain analyses may be compiled with outdated market information, limiting the value of the Advisor's analysis. Furthermore, an accurate market analysis can only produce a forecast of the direction of market values with no assurances that the forecast will materialize into actionable and/or profitable investment opportunities.

The Advisor's primary investment strategies - Long Term Purchases and Short Term Purchases, are fundamental investment strategies. However, every investment strategy has its own inherent risks and limitations. For example, longer term investment strategies require a longer investment time period to allow for the strategy to potentially develop. Shorter term investment strategies require a shorter investment time period to potentially develop but, as a result of more frequent trading, may incur higher transactional costs when compared to a longer term investment strategy.

The Advisor or the retained Investment Manager will primarily allocate client investment assets among various individual equity (stocks), debt (bonds) and fixed income securities, mutual funds, ETFs and in some cases private investments or limited partnerships. All investments have a risk that they will decrease in value and clients should not invest without the ability to handle capital loss. As mentioned earlier, the Advisor may utilize an Independent Manager for the direct management of the client accounts. Independent Managers have the risk of material changes of the firm, including managerial changes, which could negatively impact the performance of the account.

Item 9 ▪ Disciplinary Information

The Advisor has not been the subject of any disciplinary actions.

Item 10 ▪ Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

The Advisor's source of income are advisory fees received for providing investment management services to clients. The Advisor has also entered into an Agreement with RIA Systems, LLC (formerly "Investor's Fiduciary Advisor Network, LLC") to assist Advisor with back office, compliance, research, investment management services and operational functions. However, the ultimate responsibility for compliance resides with the Advisor.

Item 11 ▪ Code of Ethics, Trading, Participation or Interests in Client Transactions

The Advisor requires all IARs and Advisor employees be subject to its Code of Ethics ("Code"), which sets standards of behavior intended to establish a high level of professionalism, integrity and fair dealing with clients. The Code does allow Representatives and Advisor employees to maintain personal securities accounts at any broker-dealer. The Advisor does not require prior review or approval for trades in those accounts. Additionally, IARs are allowed to purchase investments for their accounts that are also purchased in client portfolios. However, Representatives and Advisor employees are not allowed to:

- Trade on inside information.
- "Front-run" or trade in anticipation of client transactions.
- Participate, trade or participate in any activity prohibited under the federal securities laws.
- Place their interests in front of clients.

All personal trading is reported to and periodically reviewed by the Advisor. For a copy of the Code please call Advisor at (509) 522-1600.

Item 12 ▪ Brokerage Practices

All transactions enacted by the Advisor are made through the Custodian selected by the client. The only exception to this would be the “tradeaway” program available at Schwab, which is described fully in Item 5 above. For utilizing the “tradeaway” service the Advisor may receive non-monetary benefits such as research, bond selection or fixed income advice, however any transactions effected through this program are done in an effort to benefit the client.

The Custodian holds the assets and provides the trading and custody platform used by the IARs. Neither the Advisor nor the IARs have the authority to determine which brokers or Custodians its clients use to hold their assets or the fees charged by the Custodian. However, for reasons of familiarity and efficiency the Advisor tends to recommend a single Custodian provider for clients. Factors used to determine which Custodian to recommend include trading costs, electronic access to trading and client accounts, software and/or discounts on software, products and services, compliance, research and technology, marketing assistance, discounted and/or free admission to conferences, meetings and or educational/social events and other operational support that may benefit the Advisor or IARs, but not the client. This could create a conflict that the recommendation of the Custodian is based on the research and products or services and not based on the Custodian providing the best execution for transactions in the client accounts. The Custodian recommended by Advisor is Charles Schwab and Company, (“Schwab”) a separate and unaffiliated broker-dealer.

It is possible that Schwab could refer a client to Advisor, although there is no formal plan in place for any such referrals. It is unlikely that the Advisor would allow a client to direct brokerage to specific broker-dealer. However, if such an arrangement was allowed the Advisor would not be able to ensure best execution or fair commissions for the client.

In some cases, the IARs may aggregate or block trade multiple client accounts. Doing so allows some efficiency in the transactions, although it does not ensure the client will receive a reduction in trading costs or a better execution price than if the trade was enacted separately. Neither Advisor nor IARs receive any soft-dollar benefits.

It may be possible for the IARs to buy or sell securities in their personal accounts that were also purchased in the client account. Advisor has a strict policy against using the trade flow of clients to economically benefit the IARs or Advisor.

Item 13 ▪ Review of Accounts

The Advisor and the IARs review client accounts on a regular basis, typically quarterly. However, clients may request more frequent reviews. There are many factors that might stimulate a review of accounts, including regular review dates, economic changes, political disruptions or other market activity. The client must report any changes to their personal or financial situation that might impact their overall financial goals.

The Advisor may also provide quarterly reports on the holdings and performance of the assets in the accounts. The valuation of the accounts in the reports provided by the Advisor may differ slightly from the amount shown on the statement from the Custodian. This potential difference stems from settlement date versus trade date accounting. It is important for the client to rely on the statement provided by Schwab for the official record of assets in their accounts.

IARs are reviewed and supervised by the Chief Compliance Officer. Client reviews are conducted on a regular basis and may be completed by the Chief Compliance Officer, assignees or administrative associates. The review includes the performance of the accounts compared to the objectives or target allocation of the account, or the general market. It is critical that clients report any changes in their financial situations to Advisor or IARs.

Item 14 ▪ Client Referrals and Other Compensation

As discussed above, the Advisor may receive an indirect economic benefit from Schwab. The Advisor does not compensate, directly or indirectly, any person for client referrals.

Item 15 ▪ Custody

Neither the Advisor nor the IARs will take physical possession of client assets. An exception to this is the ability to electronically debit advisory fees authorized in the investment advisory agreement. Additionally, we are reporting custody on some accounts where clients have requested the ability to transfer assets to third-parties. Although, we do not have any relationship, affiliation or share an address with any of the third-parties, we are following SEC guidelines to report having custody of these assets. Client will receive, at least quarterly, a statement from the Custodian showing all transactions occurring in the account during the period and we encourage clients to rely on these statements as the official record of their accounts.

Item 16 ▪ Investment Discretion

The client can engage the Advisor by executing an Investment Advisory Agreement, naming the Advisor as client's attorney and agent in fact, granting the Advisor full authority to buy, sell, or otherwise effect investment transactions in the accounts. Clients may note restrictions on the Advisor's discretionary authority in the special instructions section of the Advisory Agreement or in writing.

Item 17 ▪ Voting Client Securities

The Advisor does not vote client proxies. Clients maintain exclusive responsibility for voting all proxies generated from the securities held by the client.

Item 18 ▪ Financial Information

The Advisor does not require fees of more than $1,200 per client, six months or more in advance and is unaware of any financial condition that is reasonably likely to impair its ability to meet its contractual commitments relating to its discretionary authority over certain client accounts. Additionally, the Advisor has not been the subject of a bankruptcy petition.

ADV Part 2B ▪ Supplemental Brochure

Under separate cover client and prospective clients will receive information on the IARs that is specific to them and their practice. This is called a Supplemental Brochure. Clients and prospective clients can find additional information at www.advisorinfo.sec.gov, or by calling Advisor at (509) 522-1600.

Questions or Inquiries

Educational Background and Business Experience

Shannon Block was born in 1981. Ms. Block graduated from Western Washington University in 2003 with a Bachelor of Business Administration degree in Accounting and she is a Certified Public Accountant (“CPA”). Ms. Block started her career with a regional CPA firm in 2003. In 2005, she transitioned to PriceWaterhouseCoopers. She lived in Zurich from 2006-2009 and in 2010 she moved to Walla Walla where she continued her CPA career with Block, Maughan & Associates until 2015. From 2015 through 2019 she worked in the mortgage industry for Commerce Home Mortgage and later Premier Mortgage. She joined Buckley Investment Group in 2019 as an Investment Advisor Representative.

CPAs are licensed and regulated by their state boards of accountancy. While state laws and regulations vary, the education, experience and testing requirements for licensure as a CPA generally include minimum college education (typically 150 credit hours with at least a baccalaureate degree and a concentration in accounting), minimum experience levels (most states require at least one year of experience providing services that involve the use of accounting, attest, compilation, management advisory, financial advisory, tax or consulting skills, all of which must be achieved under the supervision of or verification by a CPA), and successful passage of the Uniform CPA Examination. In order to maintain a CPA license, states generally require the completion of 40 hours of continuing professional education (CPE) each year (or 80 hours over a two year period or 120 hours over a three year period). Additionally, all American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) members are required to follow a rigorous Code of Professional Conduct which requires that they act with integrity, objectivity, due care, competence, fully disclose any conflicts of interest (and obtain client consent if a conflict exists), maintain client confidentiality, disclose to the client any commission or referral fees, and serve the public interest when providing financial services. The vast majority of state boards of accountancy have adopted the AICPA’s Code of Professional Conduct within their state accountancy laws or have created their own.
